The Waterfront Park is a large, open space with views of the harbour and surrounding islands. It is highly exposed to wind and rain and lacks trees, shelter, and amenities. Large paved areas are under-used. These conditions create opportunities to improve comfort and year-round use.

Metlakatla Pass Context

The City undertook a design process to look at how the site could highlight the beauty of Prince Rupert and the surrounding landscape.

The design team looked to inspiration from Metlakatla Pass including topography, wildlife, culture, seasonality and tidal patterns to shape the themes and feelings that the park would evoke.

A Birds Eye View

The Phase 1 Park will include spaces for gathering, play, and enjoying the waterfront that respond to the site's open, coastal character. The playground is located within these areas to take advantage of existing site features and to remain comfortable in a range of weather conditions. Market tents can provide temporary cover while maintaining an open-air feel. Paths, play areas, and activities are arranged to work naturally with the landform and seasonal changes.

Phasing Strategy

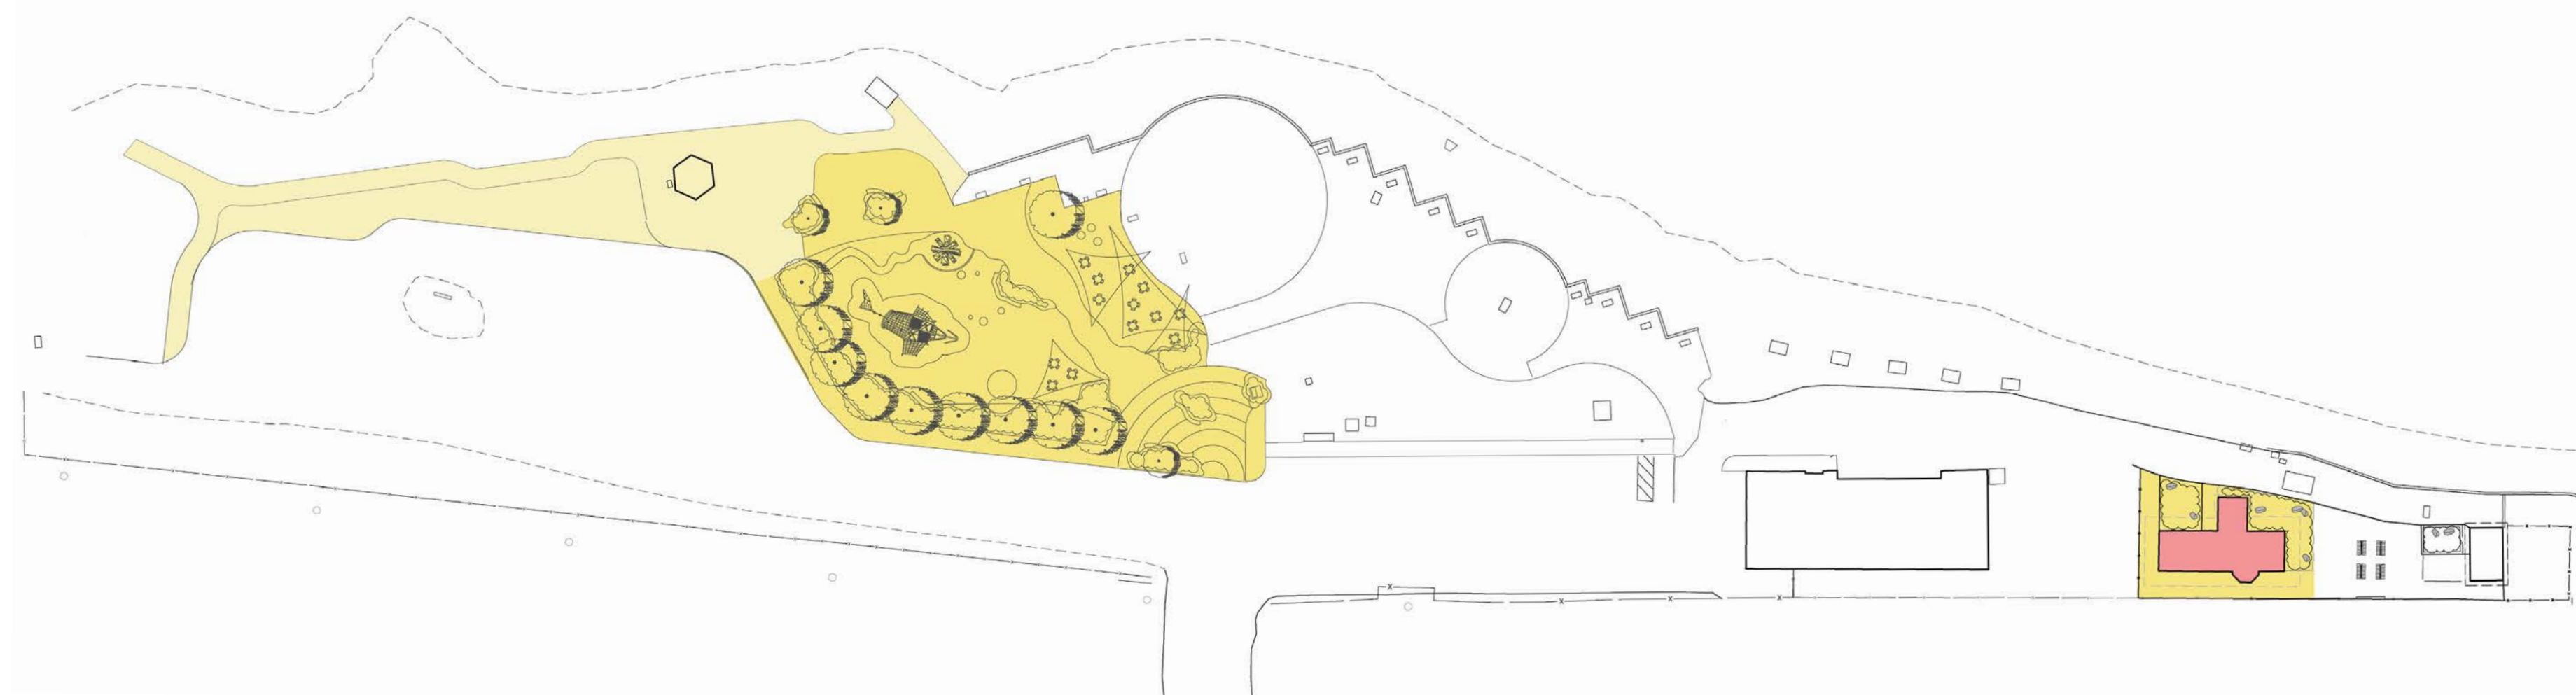

Phase 1A – Kwinitsa Building Move

To create open space within the park and give the Kwinitsa building a new purpose, it will be moved to the northeast of the brewery.

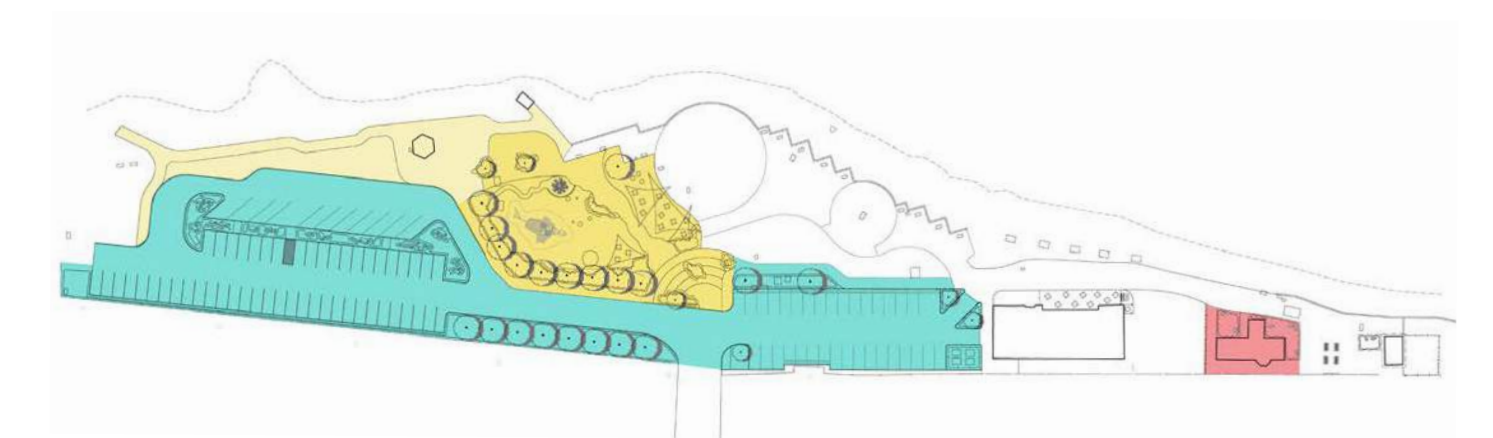

Phase 1B – Park Development

Development of a playground, market area, and Rainbow plaza will be developed. Temporary gravel pathways will be added along the southern portion of the site to improve circulation.

Phase 2 – Parking Lots

Both the north and south parking lots will be developed with additional utility servicing.

Phase 3 and Beyond

Both the north and south parking lots will be developed with additional utility servicing.
